

ALEXEI V. KOMAROV

Training and Achievements:

Before immigrating to the United States in 1993, Alex began skating at the age of four in his hometown of Yekaterinburg, Russia. In Yekaterinburg he studied Freestyle, Pairs and eventually, Ice Dancing. At the age of fifteen, Alex attended the Sports School of Olympic Reserves in Moscow, Russia. It's quite unusual for a skater to have this diverse a background, having studied all three disciplines of skating. After graduation he briefly attended the Institute of Physical Culture in Moscow, Russia. He was a competitor in the 1991 Russian National Championships in Junior Dance.

After arriving in the United States, Alex received his USFSA Gold Medal in Dance and Free Dance. He was trained by World and Olympic Coach Genrikh Sretenski. His accomplishments include:

- 1997 U.S. National Championships, Competitor
- 1997 Pacific Coast Championships, 1st Place
- 1996 U.S. National Championships, Competitor
- 1996 Pacific Coast Championships, 4th Place
